

Southwest Development

Kid Power is pleased to announce its partnership with E Street Development. As part of a project to build a new fire station in Southwest DC, Kid Power will receive significant community space to serve the students of Amidon E.S. and Jefferson M.S.

Kid Power to Benefit from Mixed-Use Project in SW

Community Space Provided for Kid Power Programming

Washington, DC - April 6, 2009 -

Mayor Adrian M. Fenty on Monday announced the District has selected E Street Development to build a 500,000 square foot mixed use project in Southwest. The project includes a new fire station for Engine Co. 13, along with educational space for Kid Power, Inc.

"This is a great example of how we can leverage our under-used District-owned assets to create real value for our residents," Mayor Fenty said.

The project will provide Kid Power with much needed space for its academic, service, and arts activities in Ward 6.

Kid Power is honored to partner with E Street Development to provide a safe and enriching environment for Southwest students.

Washington City Paper Article